CHAPTER 3

Having reached the top of the Crow's nest, you realize that you are getting closer to your quest. The Mariner was here, but now it appears he has escaped his Smoker captors and is heading off toward the Atoll.

What the Mariner could not know, is that an armada of Smokers is close on his tail. You must do everything in your power to stop them.

Glancing through the telescope you quickly sight the armada and note their direction. With no time to spare, you slide down the ladder toward your waiting water craft.
